COURT

SNYDER'S TRAVELETTE

I left Bedford on Tuesday August 6, about ten o'clock when the mercury was about ready to jump out at the top of the thermometer, for Morrison's Cove to see if I could get Mr. Morrison to subscribe for the Gazette but up to this writing I have not been able to locate the gentleman nor any one by that name. However I may yet for I have reached the place called New Enterprise and I will get enough new enterprise here to continue the hunt till I find Old Enterprise and likely he will live there. Morrison's Cove like all coves has mountains on three sides. I have inquired of several to tell me the names of these mountains but all the answers are the same—"I don't know". One said the mountain east must be Saxton mountain because they crossed it to go to Saxton. Another said the mountain to the south was Dutch Corner mountain because Dutch Corner was across on the other side, so a part of that mountain must be Snake mountain for Snake Spring Valley is over on the other side.

After leaving the Lincoln Highway the first place I stopped was at J. R. Ritchey's. In the valley where I found a boy riding a horse while it was pasturing in the yard. Mrs. Ritchey was sweeping the porch to have a nice clean place for me to sit and talk her into to subscribing for the Gazette. She is a sister of J. H. Clark down at Ray's Hill but is better looking which means quite a lot. I didn't see Mr. Ritchey. Mrs. Ritchey keeps her turkey hen tied by the hind leg, consequently she is not such a good layer as Mrs. Clark's which has laid about a hundred eggs this season. A turkey hen will not lay if she is tied by the hind leg and its no use to expect it. Mrs. Clark lets her turkey hen have the free use of her legs and she gets the eggs. They are specked somewhat, but that is because the hen gets in the hot sun too much. I stopped at Beegle's and got my dinner and horse feed but no subscription. Mr. Beegle don't like Vic Barkman nor his paper. I did not find out whether he liked me or not but he likes to work and has one of the finest farms in the whole country and a Jersey bull that can drink water fast as one can pump it out on a hot day. I filled him once but will not try the job again. I stopped at Joe Snyders. He is a blacksmith and farmer. He shod my horse and Mrs. Snyder gave me my supper and then I started for Morrison's Cove, thinking to drive over the mountain in the cool of the evening. I met my old friend Mr. Baker of "The Willows" who was taking home a load of ripe plums from his mountain farm. He gave me a liberal supply and I voted him a pretty good kind of fellow. When I got to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kreps at the foot of the mountain I thought I would better stay there over night but he was away and Mrs. Kreps thought I'd better move on. She did not care to entertain "an aged unaware" when the good man was not at home. I passed over the top and began to stop and stop but all with one accord had excuses till I began to think I would have to roast out once for it was Captured Large Rattler

Henry Imgrund, living on the Topper farm, near New Baltimore on Monday captured alive a large rattlesnake measuring about 4 1-2 feet in length with nine rattles and a button. According to snakeologists this would indicate that the reptile was twelve years old. It was a female of the species and beautifully mottled, its skin looking like velvet. Imgrund espied the snake on his place and by the use of a forked stick secured it alive. Tuesday he took the reptile to New Baltimore in a large pasteboard box. It was removed to a wooden box with a glass top and was viewed by a number of persons of the town, who pronounced it one of the largest and most beautifully marked they had ever beheld.

BODY OF MINER FOUND DECOMPOSED

The badly decayed body of an aged Polish coal miner, who later proved to be Victor Coglow, by papers found on him, was discovered a day or two ago in Lincoln township, this county, between Pavia and Weyant by George Wentz, a farmer, who was clearing a tract of land in preparation to building a house. Cutting away the weeds from around the uprooted stump of a massive hemlock tree, which had been felled early in the spring, Mr. Wentz discovered the body beneath the shelter formed by the roots and the tops of several other trees which had been cut into timber. The man was well dressed and evidently not a drop of water had penetrated the shelter. There was no evidence of foul play, the head resting upon the arms, folded, small Polish testament behind his head, and by his side the pack of clothing as well as a lunch.

At an inquest held, it developed that the man had been seen early in April, on a day of the deep snow, sitting by the road near there, asleep at which time the snow had reached a depth of six inches. Mr. William Barefoot stated that the man, whom he judged was about 70 years of age, had stopped at his home that April day, stating that he was crossing the mountain to Cambria county and Mrs. Barefoot packed him a lunch; that he had given a name similar to that found upon papers and on the fly-leaf of the testament, and that he mentioned a daughter and two sons living. He had been a coal miner and was about seventy years of age. Mr. Wentz stated that at the time the tops of several trees were thrown upon the uprooted stump, nothing was seen of the body but when discovered it was in such a position that considerable work might have been done in the vicinity without it's being found and it was only on stooping to remove weeds that he made the discovery. The body of the aged man was laid to rest in the Pavia cemetery, the papers being in the hands of the District Attorney, H. C. James, at this place.

AUTO CRASH

Last Saturday about 10:30 the auto of C. J. Hammer of New Derry, Pa., crashed into the auto of Dr. E. L. Smith about two miles below Buffalo Mills which contact damaged both cars so badly that they were beyond going. No one was seriously hurt except Dr. Smith's daughter, who was thrown through the windshield and lacerated considerably about the head. Mr. George Cessna, of the Cessna Garage, Bedford happened along and picked up the people and ordered the car brought to his garage.

B. F. MEYERS DIES AT 85; LEADER IN STATE POLITICS.

Funeral Services Held For Prominent Newspaperman

Funeral services for Benjamin F. Meyers, prominent newspaperman, publisher and political leader, were held at St. Stephens' Episcopal Church Harrisburg at 10 A. M. Wednesday morning. The Rev. Rollin A. Sawyer, rector, officiated. Burial was in the Harrisburg cemetery, where services were in charge of Perseverance Lodge No. 21 F. and A. M., of which Mr. Meyers was a member.

Mr. Meyers died shortly before noon last Sunday. His death came suddenly. While it was indirectly due to ailments of long standing it was hastened by an attack of acute indigestion Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Mr. Meyers was born on the home farm in Milford township, Somerset county, July 6, 1833. He attended the schools of New Centreville, Somerset Academy, and in 1851 entered Jefferson College at Cannonsburg, Pennsylvania. After two years at Jefferson he left to enter Yale but infirm health prevented him from becoming a student there. He previously taught in the county schools at New Centreville and Somerset. At the boy's school in Somerset where he taught in 1853 he had as his pupils, George F. Baer, late President of the Reading railroad; Rear Admiral Pickens, and Major John R. Edie. He read law in the office of General William H. Koontz, and was admitted to the Somerset county bar at the November term, 1855. He formed a business partnership with Daniel Weyand and business was conducted under the firm name of Weyand and Meyers.

Journalist in West

Before his admission to the bar and while yet a minor, Mr. Meyers spent a year in Illinois where he engaged in journalism meeting such eminent men as Lincoln and Douglas. In August, 1857, he moved to Bedford, where he became editor of the Bedford Gazette. He was also admitted to the Bedford county bar and continued his practice. In 1868 he became editor of the Daily and Weekly Patriot at Harrisburg, which during the time of his editorial direction, was the leading Democratic organ of the state. He edited the two publications until 1873 when he sold the Gazette and moved to Harrisburg, devoting his entire time to the publication of the Patriot.

Founded the Evening Star

In 1891 he sold the Patriot, and purchased the Independent, and formed a consolidation of the two later newspapers, the Star and the Independent, under the name of Star Independent. In 1912 he formed a company to take over this publication and retired from active direction. The Star Independent continued under this management until 1917 when it was purchased by the Telegraph and was consolidated with this newspaper.

Prominent in Public Life

In politics Mr. Meyers was a Democrat and has been honored with many important offices. He was elected as a member of the General Assembly from Bedford county in 1863. In 1870 he was elected to a seat in Congress from the Sixteenth district, Franklin, Fulton and Somerset counties. In 1895 he was a candidate for the office of state treasurer.

Appointed by President Grover Cleveland he held the office of postmaster of Harrisburg in 1897, remaining in office 5 years. Three years of this term were under President Harrison. He was state printer from 1874 to 1877. In 1864 he was delegate to the National convention that nominated General McClellan; he was district delegate to the convention that nominated General Hancock in 1880; and delegate-at-large to the convention that nominated Grover Cleveland in 1894. In 1896 he was delegate-at-large to the convention that nominated William J. Bryan and in 1904, delegate to the national convention. (Continued on Eighth Page)

AMERICANS ASKED TO LIMIT USE OF SUGAR

Must Use No More Than Two Pounds Per Person a Month if the Present Meagre Allied Sugar Ration Is Maintained.

Stocks Will Be Short Until Beginning of New Year—Ration May Be Enlarged Then.

Two pounds of sugar a month—half a pound a week—that is the sugar ration the U. S. Food Administration has asked every American to observe until January 1, 1919, in order to make sure there shall be enough for our Army and Navy, for the Allied armies and for the civilians of those nations.

By New Year's the world sugar situation will be relieved somewhat by the new crop. Cuban sugar of this year's crop will be arriving in this country.

Every available sugar source will be drawn on by the Food Administration during the next winter months to maintain sufficient stocks here to keep up our national sugar supply. During October the first American beet sugar will arrive in the markets. By the middle of November some of our Louisiana cane crop will be available. All of this sugar and more may be needed to keep this nation supplied on a reduced ration and to safeguard the Allied sugar ration from still further reduction. In Europe the present ration is already reduced to a minimum.

Our Situation.

The situation which the United States faces in its efforts to maintain a fair distribution of sugar to the Allied world is as follows:

Sugar supplies throughout the country, in homes, stores, factories and bakeries are at a low ebb. We must make increased sugar shipments to the Allies.

Production of American beet and Louisiana cane crops have been disappointing.

Porto Rico crops have been curtailed.

Immense sugar stocks in Java cannot be reached on account of the shipping shortage; ships are needed for troop movements and munitions.

Army and Navy sugar requirements have increased as well as those from the Allies.

Most industries using sugar have had their allotment reduced by one-half; some will receive no sugar.

Households should make every effort to preserve the fruit crop without sugar, or with small amounts of sugar. Later, when the sugar supply is larger, the canned fruit may be sweetened as it is used.

French Sugar Mills Destroyed

France must import sugar today, most of it from this side of the ocean, because the largest portion of French sugar beet land is in German hands. As a result, the French people have been placed on a sugar ration of about 18 pounds a year for domestic use; a pound and a half a month. This photograph shows how the German troops destroyed French sugar mills. Thanks to the French rationing system the annual consumption has been cut to 600,000 tons, according to reports reaching the United States Food Administration. Before the war France had an average sugar crop of about 750,000 tons of sugar and had some left over for export.

Saving Sugar Saves Shipping

AMERICAN families would have less sugar than the people of war torn France, if we depended entirely on our home-grown sugar stocks.

Approximately 75 per cent. of our sugar is shipped to our shores. We produce about 1,000,000 tons of sugar a year. Our imports from abroad amount to over 3,000,000 tons a year in normal times.

The United States Food Administration asks each family to limit its use of sugar to two pounds per month per person for household use. The military situation demands that every available ship be placed at the disposal of the Army or Navy. When we save sugar, we save shipping.

Piles Relived

Also Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Old Sores and Carbuncles.

Under the influence of San Cura Ointment surprising improvement is made so quickly that it seems almost miraculous.

Stubborn cases of piles like those of Rev. W. F. Gilbert of Titusville, Pa., vanish before the marvelous antiseptic Ointment. Mr. Gilbert writes: "For twenty years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles; at times I was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using San Cura Ointment and one 50c jar made a firm and permanent cure. I have not been troubled since."

San Cura Ointment is guaranteed by Ed D. Heckerman, who is the agent in Bedford, to help any of the above named diseases or money back. It relieves pain from burns, cuts and bruises, draws out the poison and often heals in a short time. 30c, 60c and $1.20 a jar at Ed. D. Heckerman's.

A Matter of Money

By LINCOLN ROTHBLUM

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Gloria was as delectable a bit of femininity as one could find at the fashionable resort of Norharbor. Barely five feet five in her French-heeled boots, she had a most alluring manner of looking into your eyes as if your every gesture were precious to her. Despite the adoration paid her, she remained lovable. But beyond these apparent facts, little was known of Gloria Stanley, who came every year to this resort and, to all appearances, plentifully supplied with money. Always dressed in good taste, with no little variety in her costumes, it is not to be wondered that she excited the admiration of the women as well as the men.

And now the summer colony was agog with excitement—for Gloria had met her "hero." And this is the way it happened:

Arising one morning earlier than the other guests, she slipped into her bathing suit and ran lightly across the stretch of sand, fairly quivering with suppressed excitement and pleasure of her anticipated plunge. Pausing a moment on tiptoe at the edge of the pier to drop her bathrobe and judge her dive, she stretched her arms obliquely downward and sailed through the air, clearing the water like an arrow. In a moment her straight body could be seen skimming close to the surface, nothing of the scene enacted before her.

The next morning, as if by telepathy understanding, Gloria was at the water's edge at the same hour and in the same costume as the day before. Nor was she disappointed to find the young man already on hand. In the bottom of a canoe lay a neat bundle of wearing apparel.

"Thought I'd row across this morning so I could bring my clothes, and after we have our dip, I'd like to accept yesterday's invitation," and as the questioning look left her face, he added: "I'm camping by myself—and it's lonesome."

"Bully," she cried, striking her palms together man-fashion, "and then it'll be tennis after breakfast?"

Quite naturally he took her hand as they waded into the water until the depth permitted swimming. That morning they raced beneath the water, springing above the waves like flying fish, diving in every conceivable position—and in all the young man executed, the girl gamely followed suit. Tired and breathless, they floated on their backs toward shore. And the porch dowagers shook their heads ominously as the laughter of the two figures chasing each other up and down the sand, came faintly to their ears.

But neither were prepared for the change clothes made. He had not quite expected to see this boyish girl transformed into the vision standing before him, just a trifle taller in the low-heeled tennis shoes; nor, it must be admitted, had Gloria anticipated the very good impression this white flannel man seemed to be making upon the hotel guests who chanced to see him. And although such admiring glances, ill-concealed, did not displease her, she was wondering if the others noticed how carefully his finger ran down the price column of the bill of fare. But his seeming parsimony did not mar the ten wonderful days they swam, romped and played together—a very brief span of time indeed as the hourglass goes, but a sweet eternity of delight to the two who had found companionship in one another.

It was a sun, barely two hours awake, which looked down upon the sorrow of their parting.

"Gloria," the young man finally spoke, "these days have been like a wonderful dream to me. I must wake up now."

"Do you want my address?" she tearfully and practically asked.

"No," he murmured, and turned away.

Gloria gasped. His answer was entirely unprecedented in the annals of lovemaking.

"Did you say 'no,' Jack?" she repeated, incredulously.

He turned around and held out his hand. "Trust me, little girl," he softly asked, "wait for me one year. Will you?"

Quite uncomprehendingly, Gloria shook his hand. Head bent, she turned toward the hotel. And though her heart told her that Jack belonged to no other, her reason bade her forget how very much he had come to mean to her.

Fall, winter and spring came and went, and with summer arrived Norharbor's perennial colonists. Gloria, with a charming array of new frocks, appeared as cheerful, winsome and pretty as ever, but exhibited a listless attitude toward her favorite recreation of swimming.

On the third day of her stay, Gloria arose earlier than the other guests and made her way to the lake. As if to leave all her cares behind, she dove from the pier with a high spring and came up—in the arms of Jack Turner.

"Jack!" she exclaimed, trying to free herself from his tight embrace.

Definitely he tucked her in the crook of his left arm, and striking out powerfully with his right, in a few moments stood her on the sand. Pleasure at his presence and indignation at his conduct fought for control.

"Gloria!" he commanded, and a wonderful happiness danced in his eyes. "Will you marry me?"

Gloria gasped. "Then you're not already married?"

"Of course not. What put that idea into your head?"

"Well, why did you leave me that way last summer?"

"A man without money can't ask a girl who can afford the luxuries of this hotel, to marry him, can he?"

"No."

"So all winter I've had my shoulder to the wheel, and," he added, nervously, "if you're willing, I can give you the luxuries you are accustomed to."

"But, dear boy," she laughed delightedly, "I'm just a poor, foolish stenographer who spends her winter savings in two extravagant weeks!"

Big Collie Is Chauffeur.

Gear-shifting, of course, is outside the limits of possibility for him, but except for this operation a big collie, owned by a Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) automobile dealer, is able to drive a motorcar. Everybody along "auto row" in New York city was completely dumfounded not long ago when the dog acted as chauffeur for his master. While weaving in and out through Broadway's traffic, however, the owner had an auxiliary control at hand to help the animal out of tight places and avoid the danger of a mishap. But on ordinary occasions when congested streets do not have to be negotiated the collie drives along like a man, turning corners and avoiding other vehicles with surprising facility. On such rides his master sits beside him or in the tonneau behind. On a track, where the chance of accident is eliminated the dog drives along with nobody in the car to help him. No special device is fixed to the steering wheel to assist him.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

"I'm so Sorry."

then suddenly it stopped as if it had struck a barrier. And there arose above the water two heads, more shocked than hurt by the contact.

"I'm so sorry," Gloria spluttered, as she tread water. "I didn't see you before I dove off."

"Mighty careless of me to be in the way," laughed the young man, with a most engaging smile, as he swam close by in a very professional manner. "I hope you're not hurt."

"Not a bit," she responded, smiling back at him, and as a moment's afterthought, "let's race to shore."

Taking his compliance as granted, she commenced to augment the distance between them with broad, embracing strokes. He let her keep in the lead until but a few feet from shore, then swiftly caught up to her, so that they emerged in unison.

"You swim well," he said, breathing hard. "I didn't think I'd have to work so hard to catch up."

And, although Gloria couldn't account for it, she felt flattered by this stranger's praise. Out of the corner of her eye she saw a stalwart man—just a little different from any other she had ever met before.

"Let's rest," she suggested, stretching at full length on the sand, which had just begun to reflect the warmth of the sun now well up in the heavens.

He sat down beside her, hands clasped about his knees. It was as if they were children and she had said, "Let's play." He entered into the spirit.

"My name's John Turner, he ventured by way of conversation, "but most folks call me Jack. What's yours?"

"My name is Gloria Stanley, but most folks call me Gloria," she mimicked, her blue eyes twinkling merrily. "I'm staying at the hotel. When did you come?"

The young man hesitated.

"Oh, I'm not at the hotel," he answered hurriedly. "I'm camping on the other side of the lake. That hotel and my pocketbook don't hitch."

As if to avoid the personal trend his remark had given to their conversation, he continued: "But you must be hungry. Hadn't you better go for breakfast?"

Gloria arose and shook the wet sand from her suit. "Won't you come, too?" she asked abruptly, as if against her better judgment.

"No, no," he hastily responded, "my breakfast is waiting for me across the lake."

With serious formality they shook hands, and Gloria turned toward the hotel veranda, where already could be seen the ever-watchful ladies waiting.

Length, about nine and one-half inches.

Range: Breeds in Mexico and North America south of the barren grounds, winters in southern half of United States and south to Costa Rica.

Habits and economic status: The prairies of the upper Mississippi valley, with their numerous sloughs and ponds, furnish ideal nesting places for redwings, and consequently this region has become the great breeding ground for the species. These prairies pour forth the vast flocks that play havoc with grain fields. East of the Appalachian range, marshes on the shores of lakes, rivers, and estuaries are the only available breeding sites and, as these are comparatively few and small, the species is much less abundant than in the West. Redwings are eminently gregarious, living in flocks and breeding in communities. The food of the redwing consists of 27 per cent animal matter and 73 per cent vegetable. Insects constitute practically one-fourth of the food. Beetles (largely weevils, a most harmful group) amount to 10 per cent. Grasshoppers are eaten in every month and amount to about 5 per cent. Caterpillars (among them the injurious army worm) are eaten at all seasons and aggregate 6 per cent. Ants, wasps, bugs, flies, dragonflies, and spiders also are eaten. The vegetable food consists of seeds, including grain, of which oats is the favorite, and some small fruits. When in large flocks this bird is capable of doing great harm to grain.

The amount of rain which fell was 1.75 inches during the last week, or over 200 tons to the acre and yet the ground is dry.

Huntingdon got things mixed a little. It had its Ex-Associate Judge, Harris Richardson, dead but he wasn't. He served notice on the newspapers to quit telling lies.

The Estate of H. P. Reynolds, of Trough Creek Valley, Huntingdon Co. will be sold at Assignee's Sale, Friday, August 23, at Huntingdon. It consists of three tracts, the "Hill Farm" of 242 acres; the "Purnace Farm" of 427 acres and the waste land where deer abide of 4038 acres.

Plans of Republican Leaders.

Senator Sproul formally opened his campaign for Governor of Pennsylvania at Lancaster on Monday, according to the political gossip. He made a speech the feature of which was an eulogy to Congressman Griest and a pretense of support of the war work.

"We are not going to raise any partisan questions," he declared, "but we are going to prepare for the days after the war, when the bills have to be paid." In other words the present object of the Republican machine is to hold itself in shape for participation in the distribution of the spoils of war after the victory has been won. The Republican managers are experts in such work.

But Senator Beidleman, Mr. Sproul's associate on the ticket, was more candid. He "threw a harpoon into the President," to employ a current colloquialism and "denounced a one-man war," with much vehemence.

"If the nation had opened war against Germany when the Lusitania was sunk," he said, "Russia would have been saved and the war would be over now." He failed to explain how or why a premature declaration of war would have achieved such results or why the vast majority of the Republican leaders advised the contrary course. But he revealed the actual purpose of the Republican machine which is to reverse the war policies of the government and prolong the war indefinitely.

Taken together these opening utterances of the Republican candidates reveal the plan of campaign of the Republican machine. Sproul is to pose as the conservative and loyal statesman while Beidleman will take care of the political end. During the primary campaign the head of the ticket played to the Prohibition gallery while the rail wiggled to the whiskey trust and now they hope to play both ends against the middle by a scheme of false pretense equally transparent. Meantime the real purpose of both candidates and their managers is to "cop" the spoils of war and fatten up on the misfortunes of the country. The plan shows scant respect for popular intelligence.

There are two kinds of disloyal Democrats in Bedford. One kind votes with Reynolds when he wants assistance and is satisfied with the Republican ticket and the other votes with Bill Brice, when he wants assistance and is satisfied with the Republican ticket. The Republican ticket gets one or the other all the time. Can you see? The only difference we can see is that with Bill Brice's faction, it's the tail wagging the dog while with the Reynolds faction the big end is foremost. These factions have no business in the councils of the party but there is where they want all the time and they can make some people believe they are loyal.

— S. S. Reighard, four administrator of Blair County, has a puzzling question to answer following the receipt of a letter from a Roaring Spring farmer. The farmer asks the administrator what he is to do with his supply of rye. In the letter it is explained that the farmer is unable to dispose of his rye and that he needs the room immediately. In addition he needs the bags, the money from the sale of the rye and the rye products food, as he keeps thirty seven hogs. The farmer visited three mills in Morrison Cove and each refused to buy the rye, the mills not being in "a position to grind it into flour for consumption." The farmer was previously instructed not to feed the rye to his stock.

dark and then some. I played poor pussy-wants-a-corner, till I reached the home of Cal Detwiler who had gone to bed but I hollowed him out," and he after being "hollowed out" had room to take me in. So far the trip had been all expenses an I'd begun to count my quarters, but the tune changed as it generally does and I have fared well thus far. It is much pleasanter when out on these trips to be gathering in than paying out, and also to be invited in than kept out. One thing is especially objectionable and that is talking to women through a screen in the door.

Before reaching Loysburg there came up one of the blackest storms I mos ever saw. It lightened, rained, hailed and blowed. The elements seemed to be having a picnic; corn was splintered, oats thrashed, windows cracked, and vegetable leaves punctured. The oats crop suffered most. However I was in shelter and never a hair was cut from my head. Thanks to Mr. Albert Gephart who invited me in.

Passing along the way I stopped at Elmer Baker's farm near Bull Run. Mr. and Mrs. Baker are yet younger than thirty and have six fine little children already. That's the way to live, move and have beings. When this mother gets into her auto and gets that bunch of little fellows in she looks happy as she deserves to be. It was a case of

"Henry, Ellen, Tom and Ann,

George and Jane and Little Fan."

My next stop was at Ross Clappers. Mrs. Clapper was a former teacher at Saxton, Miss Mary Reed whose mother always reads the Gazette and the daughter will not forsake the way of her mother.

After the storm I drove to Loysburg to find W. B. Hoover's hotel full and when I got in it was overflow ing, so that he took me over to Henry Grubbs to put me to sleep. Mr. Grubb is a son of Ahimazz Grubb who lived near Clearville. I also found Wilson A. Nycum another Monroe township boy. He has a large store at Loysburg and like Grubb, on the farm, is getting rich. Mr. Hoover has been

Mrs. R. L. Holliday, of Dover, Delt-teaching and had stopped for some years but will try it again this year. His hotel seems to be a popular one judging from the number of guests.

The young folks and old ones too, had a yard social the second night I was there for some church purpose. The yard was lit up with lanterns and pretty girls and the way they out didoes was worth seeing. They play the kind of games "mother used to play" and had as much fun as "the night Granny did". W. C. Dittmar, aged seventy-seven, was among them as active as a cooking stove and Mr. Fisher aged about eighty-seven was enjoying the fun, as well as the rest of the old folks. Even I looked on awhile.

Will have to stop now and get out on the war path for more subscribers. I have gotten 702 of them since I began these travelettes but there are 702 more in the bushes, I'll find out more about this cove yet.

Strengthen America

Lost Jobs Not the Only Consideration

More than half the world is engaged in the bloodiest war in all history—and because of it every man has a job, probably at the highest wages that he ever received.

Wouldn't it be a shame to stop this war and thus throw out of work a large number of mechanics.

What though the lives of millions of men sacrificed and countless widows and orphans remain to suffer. Who cares whether cities are destroyed and treasures ruined—let the war go on, for if you stop it, you may create a labor panic!

We are told there are 500,000 prostitutes in the United States—more people than are employed in the wholesale and retail liquor business as well as in the manufacture of liquor.

These 500,000 women furnish an enormous amount of work of all kinds for mechanics and storekeepers. They require a large number of buildings; they buy a great deal of household furniture thousands of dressmakers are given employment; jewelers are kept busy; chauffeurs and druggists are supported and an endless number of men and women are employed as electricians, bartenders, chambermaids, housekeepers, messenger boys, waiters and musicians—and these honest working people help make this business a success.

If we destroy the white slave traffic, we would take away the jobs of all these workers. Shall we, therefore, continue to encourage the white slave traffic?

What does it matter whether our daughters are sacrificed—and whether our sons are forever ruined—the main thing is that these working people who are now supported by the white slave traffic should not lose their jobs.

Same way with the booze business. Everybody knows its effects upon those who are engaged in it and upon those who use its product—but in the minds of a very considerable number of people the only consideration is this—how many men will lose their jobs if the booze business is abolished?

Nothing else seems to count. What if 60,000 brewery workers, bartenders and waiters and others engaged in the liquor business are sacrificed in every generation in this country—their entire working lives destroyed. What if countless thousands go to jail and hundreds are sent to the death-chair because of the liquor business—let the traffic in alcohol go on!

Have we gone mad? Isn't there anything else besides the purely commercial aspects of this business that one must consider? Do the bodies and the souls of our loved ones count for nothing?

Isn't it time that we came to our senses and forever destroy the liquor business?

If you believe that the traffic of Alcohol does more harm than good—Help Stop It!

Packers' Costs and Profits

How much do you think it costs—

1. To dress beef, cure hides, and prepare all the numerous by-products?
2. To cool the meat for two or three days before shipment?
3. To freight it to all parts of the country in special refrigerator cars, iced daily?
4. To carry it in hundreds of branch houses, each with its refrigerating plant?
5. And to deliver it to the retailer—sweet and fresh—in less than two weeks after dressing?

Swift & Company did all this for you in 1917 at an expense of less than 2½ cents per pound of beef sold, including an average profit of ¼ of a cent a pound.

Pennsylvania Railroad Women Organize for War Relief Work.

On Wednesday August 7, 1918, the women of the Bedford Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad met in the Bedford Court House to organize Department No. 2, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Women's Division for War Relief. The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Noel W. Smith, of Altoona, wife of the General Superintendent of the Eastern Pennsylvania Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who explained in detail the work to be done in this department, which is the care of the families of the Pennsylvania Railroad employees who have joined the military forces of the nation. There are local organizations in some places that are doing this kind of work, and it is not the expectation or desire that our organization will in any way, hamper or be in opposition to such work but supplement it by making our attentions more a Pennsylvania Railroad family matter. Most of the work for which this Department is organized would ordinarily be done through neighborly sympathy, and the main object of this Department is to more thoroughly organize such work, so that when the necessity arises, it will be carried out in a systematic manner in order that in no case will any family of a Pennsylvania Railroad employee in need of aid, comfort, and sympathy, lack the same.

In spite of the excessive heat about forty five women were present and joined the organization. In this Department the women hold positions corresponding to those of their husbands, but as the wife of the Superintendent of the Bedford Division does not reside here. Mrs. John Cessna, wife of the Supervisor, was appointed to head the organization in her place with title of Superintendent, with Mrs. J. W. Penrose for Secretary and Mrs. Thomas M. Gephart, Treasurer.

AN EDUCATIONAL "BUY IN BEDFORD" CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

"The Bedford Gazette" and Leading Merchants Co-operate

Educational advantages of "Buying in Bedford" to be presented in a series of strikingly forceful and instructive cartoons and articles to appear weekly in the columns of "The Gazette".

Here are ten reasons, that are good, why people in and around Bedford should trade here:

FIRST—A town that is good enough for a man to live in is good enough for him to trade in.

SECOND—The good farmer puts everything back into the soil that he can. Likewise the good citizen should put all he can into his own community.

THIRD—If the farmer will patronize the merchant, then the merchant will in turn patronize the farmer, and mutual patronage brings mutual prosperity.

FOURTH—By keeping Bedford earned money in Bedford, there will be no danger of hard times or financial stringencies.

FIFTH—It is unreasonable that money earned in and around Bedford should be sent to Chicago, St. Louis or New York; there to build beautiful churches, schools and skyscraper buildings. Where is the money coming from to build these things for us?

SIXTH—Every dollar invested or spent in Bedford helps Bedford and consequently you get a dollar's worth, while every cent sent out of Bedford helps some other city or community.

SEVENTH—Community spirit is the greatest city builder known. "Buy at home" teaches community spirit above all things else.

EIGHTH—Intense cultivation of Bedford's resources and advantages will make it a very wealthy city.

NINTH—It is to the individual benefit of every citizen of a community to trade in that community. It is the only sound, economic principle since out of the pockets of home industries are paid the taxes that support the commonwealth.

TENTH—Bedford is a "farm" waiting for cultivation. Dollars planted here will bring in a surprisingly large harvest in a short time. It will mean more jobs, bigger salaries, more homes and prosperity for all.

Citizenship and patriotism consist of something more than voting, paying taxes and cheering the flag. In case of war, could you respect a neighbor who deserted your flag, joined the enemy and fought against the country which had given him freedom, opportunity and happiness?

You can't afford to desert the community in which you live—from which you get your living. The welfare of your home community should be your first thought because you rise or fall with it.

Frank Mickey says if a man is energetic there is always plenty of work for him to do after he comes home tired at the end of day. He can go out and see if the hen has laid, and can measure the vegetables to see if they are doing any good, pull up a few weeds and throw them over into his neighbor's lot, stop the cracks in the pig pen, correct the children every few minutes, gather up the garden tools out of the front yard, and last but not least, eat corn bread for supper.

Dock Winters who runs a blacksmith shop, barber and dental chair combined, had a patient in the person of Jeff Poor last Saturday, who had a painful tooth drawn. He said there is not much difference in having a tooth pulled and getting a hair cut at Dock's shop.

Will Miller has been acting rather queer for several days and the Hogwallow board of health has made an investigation and returned a verdict attributing his condition to living too close to the spot where the Robinsonville Band has been practicing every night for the past three weeks.

Baltz Snyder, Clearville, Rt. 2, went out to count his swarm of bees Tuesday morning and found that all had gone except about a dozen. James Lightfoot says take most any common ordinary healthy young woman out of society, give her good rations and good treatment generally and plenty of fine clothes and in six months she will look like a queen.

A number of citizens appeared before the Improvement Association at its regular session last Friday night and complained about the gully running alongside the blacksmith shop. Edgar Swartzwelder was appointed a committee to look into it.

W. P. White of Six Mile Run now uses lantern and spy glass for looking into the mouths of his patients when he goes to pull their teeth. He is gradually getting away from the guesswork system of dentistry. This progressive step was taken on account of so many people having complained lately of his having pulled the wrong tooth for the horses. It is also believed that public sentiment will demand that he soon install two sets of tongs, one for the horseshoeing department and another for the dental department.

OUR SAVED FOOD FED THE ALLIES

Food Administrator Writes President America Conserved 141,000,000 Bushels Wheat.

CREDIT DUE TO WOMEN.

Meat and Fat Shipments Increased by 844,600,000 Pounds.

Conservation measures applied by the American people enabled the United States to ship to the Allied peoples and to our own forces overseas 141,000,000 bushels of wheat and 844,600,000 pounds of meat during the past year, valued in all at $1,400,000,000. This was accomplished in the face of a serious food shortage in this country, bespeaking the wholeheartedness and patriotism with which the American people have met the food crisis abroad.

Food Administrator Hoover, in a letter to President Wilson, explains how the situation was met. The voluntary conservation program fostered by the Food Administration enabled the piling up of the millions of bushels of wheat during 1917-18 and the shipment of meat during 1917-18.

The total value of all food shipments to Allied destinations amounted to $1,400,000,000, all this food being bought through or in collaboration with the Food Administration. These figures are all based on official reports and represent food exports for the harvest year that closed June 30, 1918.

The shipments of meats and fats (including meat products, dairy products, vegetable oils, etc.) to Allied destinations were as follows:

Fiscal year 1916-17... 2,186,500,000 lbs.
Fiscal year 1917-18... 3,011,100,000 lbs.

Increase 844,600,000 lbs.

Our slaughterable animals at the beginning of the last fiscal year were not appreciably larger than the year before and particularly in hogs; they were probably less. The increase in shipments is due to conservation and the extra weight of animals added by our farmers.

The full effect of these efforts began to bear their best results in the last half of the fiscal year, when the exports to the Allies were 2,183,100,000 pounds, as against 1,288,500,000 pounds in the same period of the year before. This compares with an average of 801,000,000 pounds of total exports for the same half years in the three-year pre-war period.

In cereals and cereal products reduced to terms of cereal bushels our shipments to Allied destinations have been:

Fiscal year 1916-17... 230,900,000 bushels
Fiscal year 1917-18... 340,800,000 bushels

Increase 80,900,000 bushels

Of these cereals our shipments of the prime breadstuffs in the fiscal year 1917-18 to Allied destinations were: Wheat 181,000,000 bushels and of rye 13,900,000 bushels, a total of 144,900,000 bushels.

The exports to Allied destinations during the fiscal year 1916-17 were: Wheat 135,100,000 bushels and rye 2,300,000 bushels, a total of 137,400,000 bushels. In addition some 10,000,000 bushels of 1917 wheat are now in port for Allied destinations or en route thereto. The total shipments to Allied countries from our last harvest of wheat will be therefore, about 141,000,000 bushels, or a total of 154,900,000 bushels of prime breadstuffs. In addition to this we have shipped some 10,000,000 bushels to neutrals dependent upon us, and we have received some imports from other quarters.

"This accomplishment of our people in this matter stands out even more clearly if we bear in mind that we had available in the fiscal year 1916-17 from net carry-over and as surplus over our normal consumption about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat which we were able to export that year without trenching on our home loaf," Mr. Hoover said. "This last year, however, owing to the large failure of the 1917 wheat crop, we had available from net carry-over and production and imports only just about our normal consumption. Therefore our wheat shipments to Allied destinations represent approximately savings from our own wheat bread."

"These figures, however, do not fully convey the volume of the effort and sacrifice made during the past year by the whole American people. Despite the magnificent effort of our agricultural population in planting a much increased acreage in 1917, not only was there a very large failure in wheat, but also the corn failed to mature properly, and our corn is our dominant crop. "I am sure," Mr. Hoover wrote in concluding his report, "that all the millions of our people, agricultural as well as urban, who have contributed to these results should feel a very definite satisfaction that in a year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere all of those people joined together against Germany have come through into sight of the coming harvest not only with wealth and strength fully maintained, but with only temporary periods of hardship."

"It is difficult to distinguish between various sections of our people—the homes, public eating places, food trades, urban or agricultural populations—in assessing credit for these results, but no one will deny the dominant part of the American women."

A hoarder is a man who is more interested in getting his bills than in giving his help.

SILAGE IS SUPERIOR WINTER COW FEED

SPLENDID TYPE OF JERSEY COW FOR DAIRY.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Silage is a splendid winter feed particularly adapted for dairy cows. In many sections silage has come to be the dairy farm's main reliance for cows, for it is the best and cheapest substitute for fresh grass. While the real food and nutritive value of silage is not great, about three-fourths of its total weight being water, it is succulent and palatable. It contains a large amount of carbohydrates in proportion to the protein and will give best results when fed with some other feed richer in dry matter and in protein. As a feed containing a large amount of water in the form of natural plant juices, it is easily digested and serves the useful purpose of keeping the whole system of the animal in good condition. A silage-fed animal is rarely troubled with digestive disturbances, the coat is noticeably sleek and soft, and the skin is pliable. No rough feed is more palatable than good corn silage, which is of great importance in feeding dairy cattle as it induces a large consumption and stimulates the secretion of digestive juices.

Feeding Leguminous Hay.

Leguminous hay such as clover, cow peas or alfalfa should be fed in combination with silage. These will tend to correct the deficiencies of the silage in dry matter, protein and mineral constituents. A ration of silage and, say, alfalfa hay alone is satisfactory, however, only for cows which are dry or giving only a small amount of milk and for heifers and bulls. Cows in full milk require some concentrated feed in addition to hay and silage, as they cannot consume enough of these feeds to keep up a large flow of milk and maintain body weight.

Amount to Feed.

The amount of silage to feed a cow will depend upon the capacity of the animal to consume feed. She should be fed as much as she will clean up without waste when consuming it with her hay and grain. Raise or lower the amount until the proper quantity is ascertained. Generally speaking, a good cow should be fed just short of the limit of her appetite. If she refuses any of her feed it should be reduced at once. The small breeds will eat 25 or 30 pounds per day; the large breeds 40 or more; and the medium-sized ones amounts varying between.

Rations.

Ironclad directions for feeding cows cannot be given. In general, however, they should be supplied with all the roughage they will clean up with grain in proportion to butterfat produced. The hay will ordinarily range between 5 and 12 pounds per cow per day when fed in connection with silage. For Holsteins 1 pound of concentrates for each 4 pounds of milk produced will prove about right. For Jerseys 1 pound for each 3 pounds of milk or less will come nearer meeting the requirements. The grain for other breeds will vary between these two according to the quality of milk produced. A good rule is to feed seven times as much grain as there is butterfat produced.

The following rations have been found satisfactory:

For a 1,300-pound cow yielding 40 pounds of milk testing 3.5 per cent:

Silage 30 Pounds.
Clover, cowpeas, or alfalfa hay 5
Grain mixture 5
For the same cow yielding 20 pounds of 3.5 per cent milk:

Silage 30 Pounds.
Clover, cowpeas, or alfalfa hay 5
Grain mixture 5
For a 900-pound cow yielding 30 pounds of 5 per cent milk:

Silage 30 Pounds.
Clover, cowpeas, or alfalfa hay 5
Grain mixture 5
For the same cow yielding 15 pounds of 5 per cent milk:

Silage 30 Pounds.
Clover, cowpeas, or alfalfa hay 5
Grain mixture 5
A good grain mixture to be used in a ration which includes silage and some sort of leguminous hay is composed of:

Corn chop 4 Parts.
Wheat bran 2
Linseed oil meal or cottonseed meal 1
In case the hay used is not of this kind some of the corn chop may be replaced by linseed or cottonseed meal. In many instances brewers' dried grains or crushed oats may be profitably substituted for the bran, and oftentimes gluten products can be used to advantage in place of bran or oil meals.

Time to Feed.

The time to feed silage is directly after milking or at least several hours before milking. It fed immediately before milking the silage odors may pass through the cow's body into the milk. Besides, the milk may receive some taints directly from the stable air. On the other hand, if feeding is done subsequent to milking, the volatile silage odors will have been thrown off before the next milking hour. Silage is usually fed twice a day.

Many objections have been made to the feeding of silage, some condensers even refusing to let their patrons use it. These objections are becoming less common, since milk from cows fed silage in a proper manner is in no way impaired; furthermore there is nothing about silage that will impair the health of the animals.

Feeding Frozen Silage.

Frozen silage must be thawed before feeding. If it is then given immediately to the cows before decomposition sets in no harm will result from feeding this kind of silage; neither is the nutritive value known to be changed in any way.

USEFUL WHEELED PIG CHUTE

Handy Loading Device Can Be Put Together by Aid of Pair of Old Mower Wheels.

Get a couple of old mower wheels or other strong wheels that will stand up under the load of the weight of a few hundred pounds of live hogs. On these wheels build a hog chute, such as is shown here, and you will always have a handy loading device and one that can be pulled around over the place wherever it is needed. This is better than building a permanent loading chute near the hog lots, as the permanent chute may be some distance from the pens where the hogs are to be loaded. If so, the wheeled chute can be pulled over and set in place and the wagons backed into place to receive the load.

Wheeled Pig Chute.

Wheeled Pig Chute.

Feeding the hens once a day all the sprouted oats they want to eat, which is about a square inch of sprouts, grain and roots, enables one to reduce the grain ration about one-third and thereby effecting a saving in high-priced grain. Oat sprouts can be produced at about 20 to 25 cents per bushel, while the price of wheat is about $2.20 per bushel. It is also remarkable how sprouted oats influence the laying of the hens. A change in this respect can be noticed within a few days after sprouted oats have been fed.

INDICATES GOOD LAYING HEN

Large Bright Red Comb Is Characteristic of Best Producers—Notice the Black Minorca.

One of the characteristics of a good laying hen is a large comb. The old-timers used to say, "the bigger the comb, the better the layer," and there is a great deal of truth in it. Notice the large comb of the black Minorca, one of our very best layers, and the layer of the largest egg of any breed. Notice the large combs of the Leghorns, the best of egg-layers. Put it down as an axiom of truth that a hen with a large comb, and a bright red comb, is a good layer.

CULL OUT UNDESIRABLE COWS

Increased Cost of Production Points Out Advisability of Weeding Out All Boarders.

With the increased cost of production this seems to be the time to weed out the boarder cows in the herd. The meat value of the dairy animal now is close to the dairy value than ever before, and consequently it is possible to weed out the poor cows and replace them with profitable producers with less cash outlay than ever before.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Bedford Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

William Easter, 113 W. Penn St., Bedford, says: "I had a very severe attack of lumbago and my back was so lame, I could hardly get around. I suffered greatly and my kidneys were very sluggish, the kidney secretions being highly colored. I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they promptly removed all traces of lumbago and soreness in my back and cleared up the kidney secretions."

OVER THREE YEARS LATER, Mr. Eastersaid: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to again confirm all I have ever said about them."

Just to Ourselves.

It is hard to be really just to ourselves. A great many of us are more lenient with our own faults than with those of other people, while not a few censure themselves far more harshly for a false step than they would think of censuring another. What we should strive for is to be neither too exacting nor too lenient where our shortcomings are concerned, but to give ourselves the benefit of simple justice.

Things Injurious to Fish.

The gaunt skeletons of trees which are so conspicuous in the "coke regions" show the effects of sulphurous gases on vegetation, and the influence of mine water on fish life may be readily imagined. The heavy sediment covers up the gravelly spawning beds, and suffocates the eggs, thus inflicting injury on the fishes at the most vulnerable point. The sawmill is the "deadliest foe" of nature lovers. Its insatiable maw has well-nigh devoured our forests, and, not content with the desolation it has produced in this way on land, it is running our lakes and rivers by sawdust.

vention that nominated Alton B. Parker. He was treasurer of the Democratic state committee for three terms.

His Business Interests

As a businessman, in addition to his newspaper and law interests, he was identified with these other business interests:

Wilkes-Barre Electric Street Railway system, of which he was the founder, Citizen Passenger Railway Company of Harrisburg, of which he was president; Central Pennsylvania Traction Company of Harrisburg, of which he was vice-president; Columbia and Montour Electric Railway Company, of which he was president; Carlisle and Mt. Holly Electric Railway Company, of which he was president; Brelford Packing and Storage Company of Harrisburg, of which he was president, and the United Telephone Company, of which he was a director.

He was a warden and member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, was for years a member of the Board of Missions of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania and a member of the standing committee of the Diocese of Harrisburg. He was a thirty-second degree Mason.

Mr. Meyers' tastes were decidedly literary. He wrote much for newspapers and periodicals, mostly under a non de plus, and was the author of "A drama of Ambition", and other pieces of verse.

He married April 4, 1854, Susan C. Koontz, a daughter of Jacob Koontz and sister of General William H. Koontz.

Mr. Meyers is survived by the following children and grandchildren: Mrs. B. F. Africa, a daughter, residing at Harrisburg; William K. Meyers, a son residing in Harrisburg and Harry another son, living in Philadelphia. The grandchildren are: J. Simpson Africa, now at the U. S. Marine Corps O. T. C. C. at Quantico, Va.; B. Meyers Africa; Mary Elizabeth Meyers, Winifred Meyers, William K. Meyers, Jr., Benjamin Meyers Mumma, of New York City; Meredith Meyers, of Lewistown; Benjamin P. Meyers, Jr. Mt. Vernon, N. Y. and Mrs. Suzanne Simpson, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

Jacob Meyers, great grandfather of Benjamin F. Meyers was a native of Lancaster, now Lebanon county, and in about 1785 purchased a tract of wild and unsettled land in the region of what is now the borough of Meyersdale, Somerset county. He did not settle here but sent his sons, Christian, Jacob, Henry and John, to look after the property. All these sons settled on farms cleared from this purchase.

John Meyers the deceased man's grandfather, was a farmer and miller following these occupations throughout the active years of his life. He married a Miss Dickey, whose father came from the North of Ireland and they reared a large family.

Michael D. Meyers father of the late Mr. Meyers was born in 1809, in Somerset county, and died in 1867. He was educated in the township schools and followed the occupation of farmer from which he derived a comfortable livelihood. He was prominent in politics. He married in 1832 Sarah Schaff, a descendant of Jacob Schaff, a large landowner in Somerset county.

Dear Mother:

As I am orderly today and have a little spare time will try and drop you a few lines. We are having fine weather over here with the exception of the last week it has rained a little every day. It is a beautiful day. We are not having any severe warm days here. I was up to see little Dan Oshea last evening and that young man worked for Harold Smith, Ealor Reighard is his name. He is in Dan's company both of them saw Bill Neglar and they told me he was awful fat. I was out for supper several times this week at a private family we had eggs, French fried potato, salad, French bread and milk. There were four of us. Well mother I hope you won't worry about me as I am out of all danger and I never felt better in my life. Did you ever get those papers and money yet. I suppose Walter is having a large time out at the Springs I hope you will write and tell me the news. This finds me in the best of health and trusting you are all the same.
